Bio:

Heather Gardner has spent over 25 years in executive leadership positions developing and leading teams in high performing organizations. In her role as Managing Director and lead for DWH's turnaround and restructuring practice group, Heather helps business leaders optimize an organization's performance and potential through strategic planning, purpose-driven organizational structures and effective operating practices. She earned her B.A. in Materials Logistics Management from Michigan State University.

Heather has extensive operational experience in manufacturing, real estate and education and builds useful models to show business owners and boards the costs of running their business and the impact certain decisions and operating practices will have on their business. Heather's personal experience in running all aspects of a variety of businesses helps her to assist our clients in understanding the fundamental challenges their businesses face and provide them with tools to help them solve these challenges. Heather volunteers her time as a board member at Trillium Academy and is beginning her sixth year as Board President.
